AND WELL-CARRIED-OUT PROGRAM-THE CAN-DIDATES FOR DEGREES. Kendall Green seems to don its prettiest garb in honor of presentation day. At least that is no loubt what the friends of the students thought resterday as they went out to attend the anamal exercises of the National Deaf Mute Col lege. As contrasted with the hot, dusty and is some respects unkempt city streets which form the approaches to Kendall Green the lawns in their soft dress of spring and the foliage o the trees and shrubbery had a cool inviting appearance, which was especially grateful in the emperature which prevailed yesterday. A large number saw the beauties of Kendall Green yesterday and the chapel was well filled with an audience which displayed a deep in terest in the orations and dissertations of the young men.

A UNIQUE STYLE OF OBATORY.

The style of oratory which prevails at Kendall Green seemed specially suited to the scene. which was full of the quiet beauty of spring.

In place of the loud and elaborate declamation which marks the average college commenc ment exercises these young men threw off their rounded periods from their finger ends and scattered the pearls of eloquence with graceful, expressive gestures. For those who did not understand the expressive language of signs, one of the professors read the production while the author was declaiming it. Occasion-ally the verbal memory failed the orator and that caused his digital oratory to cease until with a glance at the written pages the thread of the discourse was gathered up and the declamation proceeded. There were, of course, varying degrees of excellence in the matter and in the delivery of the eigh orations and dissertations which were presented. Even to one unacquainted with the sign language a difference could be seen in the style of sign oratory. Some were exceedingly graceful in picturing the ideas which they wished to express, while others, if not awkward, at least were not attractive.

ON THE PLATFORM. The president of the college, Dr. Gallaudet uses the language with a good deal of grace, and as he introduced the speakers he indicated to the young men who sat near the platform is the sign language that they had been announced. The distinguished guests who gen-AMUSEMENTS.

DYSPEPSIA.

And I know that it is true. A year ago the smell of my Christmas dinner was enough for me, but this year I find that I WANT MORE THAN A SMELL. and I give Hood's Sarsaparilla the credit for the change in my feelings. For the last two years I have been troubled with dyspepsia, and could find no cure for it.

My friends told me that if I went to Europe, seasickness, change of air and diet would cure me. I went to Ireland and remained the three summer months of this year, '91, and came back in September uncured. MY BLOOD WAS WATERY and I was told to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for it. I did so, and in one month I found that it was beneficial for both poor blood and dyspepsis, for I am now PERFECTLY WELL and have not taken any other medicine since I came home. ROBT. W.
